Structured Educational Opportunities for 2009

These are structured classes, webinars, and audio conferences held on specific dates and times in various locations on campus. They regularly feature off-campus speakers and utilize adult learning techniques to facilitate learning in a group environment.

Featuring in 2009:

The ACHRI Mock Trial of Current Research Issues in June
Fall Clinical Research Compliance Symposium in October

See our Education Website for more classes at: <http://achri.archildrens.org/resources/calendar.htm>

Specialized Classes:

These classes can be lecture or Q&A style brought to your location at your convenience (usually a department standing meeting) and feature very straight-forward practical skills for both staff and investigators.

- Introduction to Research at ACHRI
 - Protocol Writing
 - Informed Consent Process
 - Research Recordkeeping
 - Other topics as requested

Personalized Study Assistance:

When you are ready to begin the process of IRB submission, I can meet with you to discuss submission through ARIA and help with any issues that arise through the submission process. Once your study has been approved by the IRB, if you are a new investigator I can bring you a “welcome-packet” to get you started on the right path to proper recordkeeping for your study. We also offer requested auditing once you have enrolled your first few subjects to make sure your study is progressing well and your recordkeeping remains in compliance.
